The Riviera Bonus is designed to give you the space you need without losing the ease of a single level layout. The main living area brings the kitchen, dining, and great room together in one open space that supports both daily routines and time spent with others. The primary suite is set apart for privacy, while additional bedrooms are positioned to give flexibility for guests, family, or work from home needs. A bonus room adds another layer of usable space, offering room to spread out without disrupting the flow of the home. With multiple bedrooms and bathrooms, the layout supports both shared living and individual space when it matters. Movement throughout the home feels simple and intentional, with each area connected in a way that keeps life organized and easy to navigate. The Riviera Bonus reflects the Tresidio approach to building homes that are functional, flexible, and designed to fit the way people live.
